Concerns Fix Up

Improvements in Cameron businesses this week were completed in interior decorating of Kuehl's Barber Shop, Jane's Beauty Salon and the offices of Lincoln Mondrik.

Meanwhile improvements in the 100 block of North Houston were completed at the First National Bank, Schigut's and Esslinger's.

Work continued on the Cameron Bowling Lanes, the Texan Cafe's new diningroom.

And the Cameron Country Club will have a new roof installed in the next few weeks.

The city was continuing grade and drainage work in several projects across the city.

Improvements were planned on streets on North Austin between 12th and 16th Sts., the Lamar St. area, North Travis, Country Club Road and Columbus Ave. on the edge of the city limits.

Recent improvements already completed in the county include a new stretch of US 77 between Minerva and Rockdale and plans for constructing a new US 77 from Rockdale south to the Lee County line.

Council Approves Move To Install 18th St. Ditch

The City Council Tuesday gave the go ahead to rebase North Austin near the County Farm and received approval from Lamar Street residents to pave the 32 foot width of that street.

City fathers also voted to authorize the city attorney to draw up letters of tresspass with three property owners on E. 18th St. prior to payment of $1,000 for right to cut drainage ditches across their property.

Mayor Coleman Duncum said the proper installation of a 10-foot waterway along the property of Dwight Price, Mrs. Gladys Pittman and Fred Cavanaugh would relieve a bad drainage problem in that sector of Cameron.

He said Price would accept $500 and the other property owners $250 each to allow the city to clear the drainage flow of water that now stands during and after rains.

City workmen also relieved a drainage problem behind St. Edward's Hospital last week, Duncum reported. Both areas had served as breeding places for mosquitos, he noted, and prevent the normal runoff of water.

The Council also approved a second and final reading of an ordinange boosting the cost of natural gas to customers of Lone Star Gas Co. by 5.4-cents per MCF. Approval for the increase followed three sessions with District Lone Star Gas Co. managers two weeks ago.

Charlie Burke, company district manager, said the increase reflected a 5.4 - cent increase allowed by the Texas Railroad Commission. Practically all other cities in the system granted the increase.

Residents in the Lamar St. area paid an additional 50-cents per running foot for pavement 32-feet wide in that area. They had already paid $1 per foot for what proved to be a 22-foot cost factor.

Also approved by the council was a report from the 1960 Equalization Board which reported:

Raising evaluations on 94 properties by $126,035, meaning additional tax income of $834.56.

--Lowering evaluations on 94 properties, losing $60,675 in valuations.

--Removing six locations from the tax rolls due to closing.

The net result was a $52,160 increase in city valuations. Equalization board members were: C. E. Triggs, C. E. Akers, and Bartle Crenan.

In other action the council:

APPROVED placement of reflector hoods over the stop light at Fourth & Travis for better vision.

VOTED to erect a street light at the entrance of the police station, in rear of City Hall, and put covers over windows of city jail.

'Ol' 101 With F. M. L.

EXCITEMENT OF EXCITEMENTS — The tobacco industry has rediscovered tobacco, this time putting it back on the smoker's end of the cigarette in the form of a filter.

The particular cigarette claims a tobacco filter, probably for lack of any other gimmick to draw public interest (just like they did attract ours.)

But, the irony of it all. The industry is back on an all-tobacco kick after these several years of filters, recessed, doubled, lengthened, tightened, shortened, circled colored and now by golly, tobaccoed.

101 - 101 - 101 - 101

I started out on chocolate flavored cigs, the only immitation of the real thing that somebody hasn't found harmful. That was at the age of 8, before the daring idea occurred to me to run out behind the house and try the McCoy.

Another lad and I did try, like all kids do, I guess. And like everyone else at age 8 whoever smoked cornsilk or a big brother's cigarettes, we turned green ..... though hardly with envy.

101 - 101 - 101 - 101

Since that day, cigarettes held little remance for us we finally reached adulthood. Then came the filter fandangle.

Everyone gets amused by Madison Avenue's ingenious devices and slogans to sell us addicts more cigarettes. We could write a whole column with the cliches the ad boys created.

FOR INSTANCE —

"It's what's up front that counts."

"The most important quarter inch in smoking."

"AND they are mild!"

"————taste good like a cigarette should."

"A thinking man's filter, a smoking man's taste."

101 - 101 - 101 - 101

That last one gets me all most as much as the all tobacco filter. Just ask yourself: What is a thinking man's filter? A metal strainer? Some absorbent cottons? A crumpled Cameron Herald? Or maybe a page torn from Encyclopedia Britannica?

City May Lose Hospital Project

Newton Memorial Hospital Advisory Board officials said today that contributions totaled $34,025 and that the $350,000 project would be lost by default unless wider support from Cameron is forthcoming.

The fund drive for a new Newton Memorial Hospital structure is entering its third week, officials noted.

The architect, John Linn Scott, of Austin, has urged that bids be called for construction of the project, officials said, to assure that additional cost of materials does not occur with further delay.

The Hill - Burton Committee has assured board officials that additional funds will be available to meet costs expected to exceed the first $320,000 estimate set two years ago. The project may run as high as $400,000, Newton Memorial Hospital spokesmen have said

The 28 - bed project would be of one - floor construction on a site north of the present Newton Memorial Hospital Building.

About $60,000 in contributions from out - of - county are promised, contingent upon a total contribution from Cameron of $50,000, officials said. A federal grant of from $160,000 to $200,000 has been assured the project.

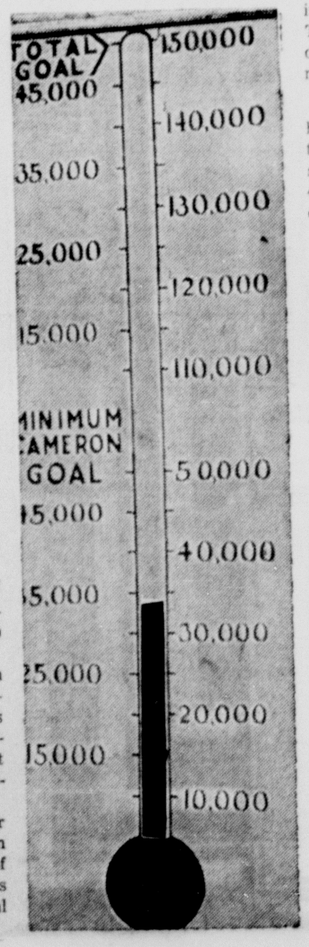
"Unless we make our minimum goal of $50,000 in short order," one spokesman said, "the project will be lost and the present hospital closed."

The total amount still needed is $16,975.

Officials place a total value of all facilities including the new structure and site at about $600,000 when completed.

The present structure, started in 1942 and added on during ensuing years, has 35 rooms, but is termed inadequate for modern hospital needs. Hospital officials point out that improving the present facilities would be bad economy.

"We feel that contributions or pledges from persons interested in the future health and welfare of Milam Countians would put this project over the top," one official said.



League Organizing Senior Boys Team

A meeting of boys 17 - 19 who wish to play baseball this summer is scheduled at 5:30 p. m. Friday, according to Cameron Little League baseball officials.

New Headcoach Bill Bates will meet with the boys and coach them this summer. A schedule will be set for the Cameron 17-19 age - bracket team with out-of-town teams.

Reports On Roof, Pressbox Scheduled At School Board

The Cameron School Board will meet 7:30 tonight to hear committees reporting on Yoe Gymnasium roof and Yoe Field pressbox

The board's agenda includes consideration of Coach Bill Bates' estimates of athletic budget items for 1960 - 61, setting a time limit for return of teachers contracts and Buckholts transfer students.

Officials noted on the pre - meeting agenda that enrollment gains in Ben Milam School and O. J. Thomas School would allow an additional teacher at each building next fall.

And the State Board of Control has approved a requisition from the Cameron District to purchase six 54-passenger buses and one 48-passenger bus for the new school year.

The board elected to purchase the seven buses in a meeting last month. They will replace seven old buses ranging in age from five to 10 years.

Committees of board members have been studying the need for reroofing the Yoe Gymnaisum and the possibility of expanding the Yoe Field pressbox.

Daniel To Proclaim 'West Week' Fete

Western Week officials have contacted Gov. Price Daniel this week and are expecting him to sign into effect a 1960 western week proclamation to boost the Cameron show next Thursday.

This was the top pre - Western Week news as bumper stickers boosting the week - long extravaganza became available free for people who wish to use them.

Beards continued to blossom across Cameron and Milam County in an effort to publicize the event for wider interest in the show that last year attracted 10,000 people to the Saddle Club parade.

Events for the two-day Saddle Club Show, July 15-16, have been announced and contacts are being made throughout the horse show circuit for top participation in the event.

Daniel's proclamation will set the stage for the real opening of publicity on a state-wide scale for the Western Week, scheduled July 11-16.

Western Week plans now include a Western square dance, introduction of special Western acts and music groups in the downtown area and pre - horse show publicity stunts by some private enterprises planning to be in the parade and Western Week shows.

These events and others will be added to the more traditional "hangings, shootings, robberies and jailings" already planned for popular rerun this summer.

Western Week displays are expected to pop out in a number of downtown store windows, including old photographs, gun collections and other displays in keeping with the show.

Chamber Manager Jack DuBois said the proclamation by Gov. Daniel will be forthcoming next week.

A number of bearded Cameronites have been attending out-of-town meetings in moves to publicize the event more widely, DuBois said.

View On Sports

By ROBERT MANN

School's out; therefore the Herald is out of its main source of sports information. However, all isn't lost. The summer recreation program, a little golf, tennis, a swimming pool and newly modeled bowling alley will serve as adequate substitutes during the summer months.

The first Babe Ruth and Little League baseball games are behind us and the newly erected baseball field is well on it's way to years of future use.

For those wno haven't seen a ballgame under the lights, its a sight to be had in a community such as Cameron. The bleachers are packed and fans are as enthusastic as any in the state.

VOS

For those not yet informed on the where abouts of our coaches who served us the past year here's what they are supposedly up to.

Jim Speer has a position with an oil well tool company in Louisiana and told the Herald that he was through with coaching for a good while.

Jerry Hopkins accepted a position as head footbal coach in Sonara Texas and Max Treadwell plans to get some more schooling in at Baylor before trying his hand at an office position in a school system.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

Many of us think of a legend as a story handed down from a long - ago past; something that our fathers heard from their fathers. But this is the story of a legend that originated in the memory-span of many who read these lines -- how a legend began, told by one who can be said to know about it at first hand.

Old Rip was one of those fantastic, fearsome - looking but harmless creatures which scientists say are lizards; but any small boy in West Texas knows better than that, they arhorned frogs. They have leatherly - like hides and spiked heads. They are voiceless and their drab color enables them to blend into the background. Their ability to scurry is their chief reliance in getting away from danger. When aroused, they can emit a reddish fluid from their eyes. In the winter, they find hiding places and go into a state of suspended animation.

The hero of this tale was no different in appearance from any of the unnumbered thousands which swarm over numerous Texas counties each spring and summer. A little, bright-eyed creature that you could hold in the palm of your hand -- yet he gained world-wide renown and he has become a part of the lore and legend of Texas.

In the winter of 1927 - 28, this chronicler was editor of Eastland's daily newspaper. A group sat in the office of the district clerk in the old brick courthouse, which had been built in 1897 and was soon to be torn down. It was almost closing time. In the group was Ernest Wood, former county clerk and later justice of the peace. He was a plump, middle - aged man, with blue eyes and a quiet way of speaking. The conversation had been about this and that; then Wood, addressing me, asked: "Did you ever hear the West Texas tradition that a horned frog can live a hundred years without food or water?"

Newspaper instinct told me that here was a story but that instinct also told me to handle the line with care. So, in an equally casual tone, I replied, "No -- but then I'm comparatively new in West Texas and don't know all the traditions. Why?" His answer was, "We'll soon know whether it's true or not."

"How is that?"

"Because when the cornerstone of this courthouse was laid, a live horned frog was placed in it."

He then related the circumstances: The courthouse cornerstone was going to be laid. Being a member of the band, he would have a part in the ceremonies. As he was leaving home, Wood saw his son, Will, playing with a horned frog. The father had read a day or so before in the Dallas News, something about the purported ability of these creatures to survive a century without food or water. Deciding to put the matter to a test, he took the frog and proceeded downtown.

Because of his duties as a musician, Wood knew he would not have the opportunity to place the frog in the cornerstone so he entrusted the animal to a friend whom he saw place the frog in the cornerstone, where also was deposited a Bible, newspaper and coins.

That night, (after our conversation) I wrote a short news article, keeping the carbon for use in the Eastland paper and sending the original to the Fort Worth Star - Telegram, of which I was the local correspondent. Not only did the Star - Telegram publish the article but the Associated Press, of which that newspaper is a member, sent the dispatch to hundreds of journals.

Big Trend For New Fishing Lures

By Vern Sanford

Have you noticed the trend in lures?

Remember when an artificial bait had to be big and brawny? Not today! Nowadays, the little ones are taking over . . . just like the little cars are doing.

And just take a look at the assortment of lures. There are thousands to choose from, in varied sizes and multitude of colors.

Don't know whether the color is there to appeal to the women as car manufactures do--or for the catch'em-fish effect. Anyway, you can buy your artificial bait today in coal black or white, an polkadot - - black dots or white or white dots or black; plus, a mixture of other colors.

You can buy them in solids and various shades of yellow, green, gold, blue, chartreuse, orange, grey tan, red, or what have you. And in chameleon too, if you like, I imagine.

Also, you can get them straight as a stick, or curved, or round, or flat - - and in lots of in-between shapes - - including cubes.

Peculiar part of it is, they all catch fish. Some do better than others -- natch. But we've never seen a lure yet that you couldn't catch a fish on -- of some size or breed.

In fact its reported that one big bass on the highland lakes was found with an empty beer can in its tummy. (Evidently a goat fish.)

Nothing seems to discourage the lure makers. Anglers too, for that matter, because they buy up the lures about as fast as man and machines can make them.

Anyway, our hat's off to the bait manufacturers. They have more competition than a big white bass after a large school of shad.

And these bait boys really are on their toes. Surely they must lie awake nights dreaming up new shapes, sizes and colors of lures. And I imagine when they can't sleep they count lures instead of sheep.

Don't know how many lure manufacturers there are in Texas, but I'm certain that Texas has its share.

Chances are Texas has a dozen more that we we don't recall, or haven't seen or heard from. Anyway, it's a thriving business that these bait boys operate, run by very able men, all keen fishermen as well as sharp idea men.

But what's ahead for them?

There's a new craze now. The trend is toward artificial worms.

It seems that these multi - colored, hook - imbedded, slimy looking wigglers are the ones that are landing the lunkers.

So, today you can get artificial worms odorless, or you can get 'em perfumed. They have them tasteless. They have them tasteful. You can buy a mint - flavored worm, eel or tadpole. Or you can buy 'em that look and smell like licorice.

And don't think for a minute that you have to slow - fish with all artificial worms, eels or tadpoles.

It's true that you should if you're after the lunkers, way down deep. But we can say from experience that five straight fast casts and quick retrieves into the same area brought up three keepers in black bass, with DeLong's new licorice - flavored "Tad Poly", a very small, tantalizing, artificial lure.

We returned the bass to their habitate to "grow up" -- but it proved one thing -- black bass will go for that mimicking tadpole, and quickly, too.

On the other hand, we'll have to admit that the son, "Sandy", using a "Catch - Em - Quick" artificial worm, a white plastic job with black polkadots, pulled out a nice four - pounder by fishing in the same area, slow and easy.

We're convinced that artificial worms, eels or tadpoles will take fish. But will all Texas lure manufacturers move into the artificial worm and eel business? I don't think so.

Why?

First - because most of them don't want to.

Second -- they don't believe enough fishermen will master the technique of fishing with a plastic worm or eel.

Third -- there isn't as much thrill in catching a great big bass deep down as there is in watching one hit a surface lure.

And - finally - it's a radical change - over from manufacturing the customary lures, to making the plastic worms, and it calls for another big and expensive investment in equipment.

Naturally, if the worm fishing craze continues to boom they will add worms to their lines and give greater encouragement to the idea But most will buy ready - mades and adapt to their own products.

You've seen the change in lures, from bigness to smallness, from wood to plastic, from drabness to colorfulness. Now, perhaps a new era has arrived -- the heyday of the plastic worm.

Better Fun, Cameron Style

We cannot help but sense the excitement of the summer fun now underway with the start of baseball on the new Cameron field.

Somehow, a city interested in its recreation facilities becomes a city keyed to the needs of growth and productivity.

Cameron soon will have enlarged bowling alleys, already has the baseball diamond, and a golf course, theatres, swimming pools, public parks and the other elements of a recreation center.

Nor can we overlook the impact of Western Week in July, livening up an otherwise torrid, but quiet month in Central Texas.

Call it polyanna, call it dreaming, but we cannot underestimate these improvements.

Other improvements related to the recreation line are construction of a diningroom at The Texan cafe, and plans for a new roof on the clubhouse of the Cameron Country Club.

When a town looks to its needs for recreation as Cameron is doing at present, industry and related growth cannot be far behind.

These facts bear out the trend that Cameron is meeting its responsibilities as a growing city, county seat and center of Milam County.

That Nobody Wants . . . .

Despots were the recent target of President Eisenhower's remarks in a speech before graduates at the University of Notre Dame . . . . And Mr. Despot himself, Nikita Khrushchev, ranted on his dangerous path to self or world destruction about the President's lack of worthiness as the U. S. chief executive.

It looks as if Khrushchev's personal diplomacy has turned toward harried incrimination of Eisenhower in the hope that the world will seek another emissary of peaceful leadership form the West.

Without naming him, Eisenhower roasted Khrushchev by condemning world leaders who "brandish angry epithets, slogans and satellites."

The Soviet Premier bitterly attacked the golf-playing President and continued efforts to smear American leadership and diplomacy.

While Eisenhower plans a trip to Soviet - incensed Japan, Khrushchev accepts an invitation from Cuba's Castro to visit that Western Hemispheric island.

Top observers keep returning to the fact that Khrushchev must be under tremendous pressures at home and in Red China for a "get tough" attitude, following disclosure of U-2 flights, ostensibly the cause of the Summit breakdown.

From the outside, it appears that Khrushchev is fighting for his political life. Though the Communist world favors world internal revolt, Soviet planners may see the need to cast rockets instead of words.

Namecalling is the only thing left for Khrushchev, short of war. He has failed to pressure the West to withdraw from Berlin, has lost face with the discovery of U-2 flights, has seen production fall off in Russia, has reduced Soviet armed forces and has disconcerted Red China with his earlier peace talks.

Like the true despot, he can only attempt to rally his forces around the threat of external aggression. If this fails, we might look out for another Korea.

It is still questionable that Soviet leadership would allow Khrushchev the grace of reasserting himself by going to war. Political coups long have been workable in Russian hierarchy.

With a new president of the United States coming in next year, it is possible he may meet a new Soviet premier during his first year of office.

To be sure, it would be another despot if it is not Khrushchev himself.

If Khrushchev really were heading for war, he would attack the United States even more bitterly, rather than take personal issue with Eisenhower and his State Department. Khrushchev knows these men will be absent when a new president is elected here. He is leaving the gate open for some sort of hoped-for appeasement while trying to divide world opinion about the U. S.

It is still a game of propaganda headlines, loaded with intimidation and threats of a war that nobody wants.

Texas Does Own Gulf Tidelands

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — In a period of deep gloom about state finances, Texans had to pinch themselves to believe the good news.

U. S. Supreme Court ruled that Texas does indeed own its tidelands for 10½ miles out – just as Texans have been claiming for 115 years.

Financially, it's a long - range gain at best. But as a moral victory for Texas principles, it's the biggest thing since the Battle of San Jacinto.

Revenue from the publicly owned land will go into the permanent school fund. Problem of Texas' bankrupt general fund is unchanged.

How much money comes to the school fund will depend on how much oil is under the submerged lands and how good is the market. Money going into the permanent school fund – from mineral leases, royalties, bonuses, etc. – is invested, and only the income from these investments may be used for current school spending.

Thus far, the oil yeild from Texas tidelands has been far from spectacular. There have been only 24 producing oil wells and 47 gas wells in 22 years.

But if conditions are promising, oil men undoubtedly will keep trying. As an innediate effort, the state will get some $29,000,000 in mineral payments that accumulated while the issue of state or federal ownership was being thashed out.

POLITICKING VACATION

Gov. Price Daniel will spend his vacation politicking for U. S. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

First stop will be the National Governors Conference in Montana June 26 - 29. After that, said the governor, he'll vacation and visit around with other goverarnents where he feels he can do the Texas favorite son's cause the most good.

And after that, he will go on to the National Democratic Convention in Los Angeles July 11.

Daniel predicted Johnson would lead on the first ballot at the convention.

ANTI - INCOME TAXERS

Voters who oppose the federal income tax and the United Nations will find a haven in the Constitution Party.

Like the Republicans and Democrats, the Constitution Party will hold a state convention June 14 to name delegates to a nation convention.

At a preliminary meeting in Austin, delegates were selected and instructed to work for a ticket headed by J. Edgar Hoover for president and Tom J. Anderson of Nashville, Tenn., for vice president.

Constitution Party also nominated candidates for all statewide offices except governor. Gubernatorial nominee was omitted, because if he should receive 200,000 or more votes in a general election, state law would require the party to go the expensive primary nominating route next election year.

HOSPITAL NEEDS GROW

Deficit or no deficit, the State Hospital Board says the hospital system has increased money needs that must be reckoned with.

Board has voted to ask the Legislation for the $107,000,000 apporpriation for the 1961-63 perios. This would be $34,000,000 more than the present allocation.

Part of the extra funds, about $2,000,000 a year, would go to hire extra people so present staffers could change form the present 44 hour week to a 40 - hour week. Board has recommended this change to put hospital employes on equal footing with those of other state agencies.

But the main problem, says the Board, is that the hospital system is getting more and more patients and needs more money to take care of them. In addition, it has the problem of caring for many oldsters who are not really mentally ill.

Business Men Don't Keep Posted On The Latest Economic Trends

Dear editar:

One trouble with this country is that not enough business people keep up with the economic trends.

For example, I read in a copy of a newspaper day before yesterday that living costs rose fourtenths of one per cent in April, as reflected by the consumers price index, a set of figures put out by the U. S. government.

As a result of this, the article explained, nearly a million workers in the auto, farm equipment and related parts industries got an automatic 2 cents an hour pay raise. Their contracts call for adjustments based on the government's consumers price index.

Well, now, I figured, I'm in the auto and farm equipment business, so to speak, especially the parts end of it, so naturally I concluded I was supposed to get a pay raise too, and since nobody pays me by the hour out here on this johnson grass farm, the only way I could see how to get a pay increase was to raise the price of things I sell.

I don't know how long it takes for a hen to lay a dozen eggs, but I figure on the basis of that 2 cents an hour boost the others were getting, me and my hens would settle for 2 cents a dozen increase, which ought to be cheap enough, so I automatically marked up the price that much and took some to town.

Like I said, the trouble with tais country is not enough business people keep up with the economic trends. I couldn't find an egg dealer in this part of the state who'd even heard of the government's consumers price index. When I said the price of my eggs is now 2 cents a dozen higher, they looked at me like they thought I was crazy.

What I figure is we've got lot of business people in this country who don't keep up with the economic treands, or else they're still using the same price index they had pasted on their office walls twenty - five years ago.

You've got a printing press somewhere there in The Cameron Herald ofice, haven't you? How about printing up a bunch of these new price indexes and distributing them around the country?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Poage Discusses Public Law 480

By Cong. Bob Poage

The major instrument of disposal of our agricultural surpluses has for several years been what is known as Public Law 480. This measure was passed with support from many leading farm organizations. I supported it. I think it does much good but I think that the time has clearly come when we should review this program and revise it to fit present needs. Our Committee has been working on this for several days.

Basically, P. L. 480 allows the sale of surplus agricultural stocks for foreign currency. This made it possible for many countries who did not have dollars to buy. It has accounted for a substantial part of our agricultural export market. This was helpful to us and helpful to others, but as the program developed our Government began to make it less and less helpful to the United States. It is understandable that any country is reluctant to allow someone else to hold large amounts of its currency with which goods might be demanded at the holder's convenience. Actually, such an arrangement has exactly the same implications to the debtor nation which an outstanding demand note has to an individual debtor.

To make it possible for underdeveloped nations to buy our surpluses we began by entering into agreements which generally provided that we would not use more than 30 per cent of currency we took in to pay regular expenses. We would then lend, say 70 per cent of the currency, back to the underdeveloped country. Often we require the country to bind itself to repay as much of its currency as it took at the time of repayment to buy the same number of U. S. dollars which could be purchased with the local currency actually loaned at the time of the loan. This is known as "maintenance of value." Without advising Congress the Administration began to eliminate those agreements. The we began to loan back a larger and larger percentage of the currency. At last we have reached the point where we are agreeing to give back a large part of this money.

An example is the recent billion dollar agreement with India under which we agree to supply India with a billion dollars' worth of surplus grain. In return, India is to pay us the equivalent of a billion dollars in rupees (at the present rate of exchange). We agree that we will not use more than 15 percent of these rupees for our own benefit. We agree to loan 42½ percent of these rupees to the Indian government and to give thtem the remaining 42½ percent. Obviously, this is not what Congress intended when we set up this program. In a later letter I will discuss the policy I think we should follow.

Yoe FHA Chapter Installs Officers At Recent Picnic

SEE TEXAS FIRST

A huge, sprawling oak tree stands proudly in the middle of a street in Columbus, Texas, west of Houston. It was beneath this tree that Judge Robert M. Williamson (Three - Legged Willie) held Court in the Third Judicial District of the Republic of Texas in 1837.

It is related that on one occasion an irate lawyer, who was commanded by Judge Willie to "produce the law", imbedded his dagger in the Judge's table saying, "Here's the law!"

Judge Willie is reported to have laid his pistol calmly on the table with this retort: "Here's the Constitution which overrules the law".

More and more people are enjoying the fine sport and the great fun of fishing in Texas .... and savoring their delicious catches at their dinner tables.

Texas' gulf coast is a fabulous "dream come true" for anglers. Many return home with ice chests full of such tasty salt water fish as speckled trout, red snapper, flounder and many, many others.

The big ones are there too! Fact of the matter is the world's record catch in a giant sea bass was made in Galveston Bay. It weighed a mighty 551 pounds.

Everyone, young and old, has read about "Old Rip." He has traveled as a dignitary all over the USA and even visited Pres. Calvin Coolidge in the White House. (Which incidentally, is pretty good for a little old "Horny Toad".)

What made Old Rip famous? This little horned frog slept for 31 years in a dehydrated state in a little tin box in the cornerstone of the courthouse in Eastland, Texas. You can see him today in his plush casket at the Eastland Courthouse and read his fabulous story again.

County Agents Notes ..

Merchandising Is Paying Off

By J. D. Moore, County Agent

A bucket of dirty eggs would bring 21 cents per dozen in nearly any store in Milam county 10 years ago. No one was particularly happy with this situation - not even the housewife that bought these eggs.

During the spring of 1950, a handful of egg producers met with F. Z. Beanblossom, Marketing Specialist with the Extension Sercive, Leo Fuchs, local dealer, and J.S. Moore, County agent. This meeting started on "page one" in attempting to explain the difference in market value of A, B, and C grade eggs. Proper handling of eggs at the proper time was explained as the key to producing quality eggs. With some reluctance, the egg producers were somewhat in the position of the earlier day actress. She was so broke she dated a different man each time because she had only one dress.

The graded egg program got underway on a "shoestring" in June of 1950. Leo Fuchs converted an extra Buckeye incubator into a cooler by insulating the inside and placing a cooling unit on the box.

We started with only 250 cases of eggs per month. Mr. Beanblossom said we need a thousand cases per month as a minimum. That seemed like a lot of eggs in face of the fact that farmers were not eager to confine their hens and they sure couldn't see buying an "on the farm" egg cooler. A minimum of one to two thousdan hens were recommended.

At first, the few farmers brought their eggs to the local egg cooler twice a week. A refrigerator food truck delivering groceries weekly, picked up the eggs and delivered them to an egg company in Dallas. During 1951 farmers started buying "on the farm" egg coolers and now all egg producers have egg coolers.

Egg producers immediately started getting 5 to 6 cents per dozen more for their eggs as compared to the current receipt price. This amounted to $1.50 per case in pointing a way to more profit.

Fertilizer Is Key To Getting Quick Soil Cover

E. B. Smith, district cooperator with the Central Texas SCD, says fertilizer is the key to getting quick and adequate cover on most of central Texas soils.

He has recently purchased a 150 acre farm in the Maysfield community. His objective is to develop this 150 acres into improved pasture that will furnish high producing forage in a year - round grazing program.

Most of the acreage on this farm consisted of low fertility cropland that had grown up to needle grass and other inferior natives. His first problem is that of establishing new grasses and providing conditions that will get good cover on all of the land as soon as possible. About one-third of the land has been sprigged to coastal Bermuda. A heavy application of complete fertilizer was put on in the row at time of sprigging. This grass has started gorwing and he has a good chance to get a solid cover this year because of the extra growth given to it by the fertilizer.

Another one - third of the place has a weak stand of common Bermuda. This part has been planted to corn and fertilized heavily with a complete fertilizer. Mr. Smith feels that a solid stand of common Bermuda will cover this part by September.

The other one - third is a heavier soil and will be used for winter grazing. It will be seeded to hubam clover and oats. Here again fertilizer will be used to supply the kick needed to get early growth and cover before cold weather.

Mr. Smith has been using fertilizers for many years and is well versed on the results that can be expected by applying it properly. He expected a complete cover of high yielding forage by this fall. He says that this would not be possible without commerical fertilizers as we are using them.

Restricted Feeding For Rearing Pullets

COLLEGE STATION — Restricted feeding of broiler strain pullets from the sixth - eighth week of the growing period until the start of egg production has been found to result in a delay in sexual maturiety and a lower body weight at the beginning of egg production.

This practice has several advantages for the poultryman, said Dr. C. W. Deyoe, Texas A & M Poultry Service Department. There is an increase in the number of large, settable eggs during the production period, an overall increase in egg size, reduced mortality, and a reduction in the cost of rearing the pullets to sexual maturity.

The two general methods commonly used for feed restriction are mechanical restriction of a high energy ration or caloric restriction with a low energy, high fiber formula containing 13 - 14 per cent protein and oat or rice hulls as the fiber source.

4-H Club Notes

By Robert W. Hoermann
Ass't County Agent

June has been designated as Dairy month. Some Milam county Dairy Club members will get a chance to show their animals to A. M. Meekma, Extension Dairy Husbnadry, who will be in the county, June 23 around 1 p. m.

In some areas of Milam county Blackleg is a major problem. The soil born disease effects animals which are in good health. There can be little excuse for losing a valuable animal with blackleg. Proper vaccination is the simple and complete answer.

Have all spring calves been vaccinated? See Extension Leaflet 135.

Thoughts as overheard down - town -- Taree fourths of the earths surface is water and one-fourth is land. It's clear that the good Lord intended man to spend three times as much time fishing as he does plowing.

4-H members representing Milam county in the State contests June 7, 8, 9, at College Station are Poultry Judging Team members, Joyce Fuchs, Cameron, Arvell Jungmann, Buckholts, Curtis Fuchs, Buckholts, and Barbara Barta, Cameron.

Leo Rozner, Ad Hall, will compete in the Tractor Driving Contest.

Henry Tomasek, Jr. and Larry Hillman, Ad Hall, will present a Poultry Method Production Demonstration.

Mrs. Alfred Barta, County Wide 4-H adult leader, will accompany the group.

Milam County Crop Report

Considering the un - seasonable cold weather during April and May crops look good throughout the county. A good rain will be necessary within the next 10 days for corn, maize and other feed crops to produce near normal yields.

Cotton is forming squares and farmers should check their cotton for flea hoppers. Due to the maturing of weeds, fleas have moved into cotton plants from this pest.

Grasshopper infestations were reported in several sections of the county. A quart of Toxaphene, Dieldrin, Aldrin or Heptachlor per acre will stop the grasshoppers.

Extreme hot weather this week reminded us that livestock should be protected from the heat. A bush - arbor type of shade for hogs with a water sprinkler made by using a cotton spray type nozzle will help swine producers.

Oat and wheat harvest got underway this week with yields running from 20 to 40 bu. per acre for oats, and wheat should yeild 10 to 15 bu. per acre.

Bill and Gene Whitaker are living "high on the hog" with a good crop of early tomatoes. Buyers phoned from Houston this week ready to buy tomatoes and canteloupes. Milam county will be two thousand acres "short" on these truck crops this year.

Southern Blight Dangerous To Most Vegetable Gardens

COLLEGE STATION — Southern blight is one of the most common plant diseases in vegetable gardens. It occurs in all areas but is likely to be more damaging in sandy soils of eastern and southern Texas. The fungus disease first appears during May in southern Texas. Gardens in northern Texas can expect the disease during June or July.

The disease is most often observed on tomatoes. However, it also occurs on beans, beets, cantaloupes, carrots, cucumbers, eggplant, Irish potatoes, peppers, pumpkins, squash and sweet potatoes.

Whitish, mold-like fungus growth appears at the base of infected plants. Small seed-like structures (sclerotia) are often found embedded in the whitish growth. These sclerotia are at first white, later brown and are about the size of mustard seed. Affected plants may wilt and die within a few days.

The disease fungus lives in the top 1 or 2 inches of soil. A soil temperature of about 85 degrees or higher is necessary for the disease to develop. The fungus lives over winter as dormant sclerotia.

A 2 percent calcium nitrate solution applied at the base of tomato plants has delayed and decreased losses. Make the application 4 to 5 weeks following transplanting. Mound the soil around the base of each plant to make a cup of about 5 inches wide and 2 inches deep. Apply 1 pint of solution to each plant.

Apply Terraclor, Vapam or VPM before planting according to the manufacturer's instructions.

WEST HOMEMAKER WINS $100 YEAST BREAD PRIZE WITH 'SUNSHINE ROLLS'

'Wouldn't be without Gladiola Hard Wheat Flour,' says Mrs. Charles Smaistrla

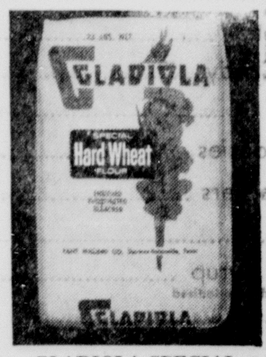
"Helen's Sunshine Rolls"—brought to golden-brown perfection in the busy kitchen at 303 N. Marable Drive, West, Texas—have earned for Mrs. Charles Smaistrla the June $100 first prize in Gladiola Flour's yeast bread Baking-Recipe-of-the-Month contest.

The winner is donating half her cash award to the bake sale fund of the Catholic Daughters of America, Court Sacred Heart Number 829.

'Flour is Main Thing'

"I never really thought my rolls would win $100," says Mrs. Smaistrla. "There's nothing fancy about them, and they're quite simple to make. The main thing, just as in all yeast breads, is to start with Gladiola Special Hard Wheat Flour.

"I wouldn't be without it in my kitchen. Nobody can make good yeast dough with an all-purpose flour. Your dough should be smooth, strong and elastic — not the sticky, lifeless kind. It should rise evenly, without a scar, and hold all that good yeast flavor. That's why Gladiola Special is a must."



GLADIOLA SPECIAL HARD WHEAT FLOUR

Known for Her Baking

This month's honored home baker has two daughters, one son and 11 grandchildren. She's an enthusiastic flower gardener, but her favorite interests are baking and cooking.

Though Mrs. Smaistrla is modest about her kitchen skill, your Glad Times reporter found she's widely known in the community for her delicious rolls and bread and her traditional Czech and German dishes.

Suggests Recipe Book

"A grand idea," says Mrs. Smaistrla of Gladiola's baking recipe contest. "It's a thrill to win a prize, of course, but it's even better to keep getting those good yeast bread recipes—a new one every month.

"Some day I hope the Gladiola people will publish a whole book of prize recipes—including all the honorable mention winners, too."

11 CASH PRIZES EVERY MONTH
HERE ARE EASY CONTEST RULES

1. This monthly contest is Gladiola's way of stimulating the exchange of good yeast bread recipe ideas between you and your neighbors here in the Home Baking Heart of Texas. Anyone may enter except employees (and their families) of Fant Milling Co., its affiliated companies and its advertising agency.
2. Write down your favorite yeast bread recipe using Gladiola Special Hard Wheat Flour. List all ingredients, then explain briefly each step in the procedure.
3. Cut off the strip that says "Gladiola Special Hard Wheat Flour" from the folder enclosed in every bag. Send it—with your recipe—to Glad Times, Sherman, Texas.
4. Send in as many yeast bread recipes as you wish. Mail each recipe in a separate envelope enclosing a Gladiola strip as explained in Rule No. 3.
5. Each month's recipes are judged separately, with an independent graduate home economist as the final judge. Recipes received in June will be eligible for prizes to be announced in September.
6. For the outstanding recipe received each month, Gladiola will pay $100. Half the prize money—$50—goes to the winner. The remaining $50 goes to the church of her choice as her special contribution.
7. Ten other yeast bread recipes will be chosen monthly for $10 Honorable Mention prizes.
8. All recipes submitted become the property of Fant Milling Company, Sherman, Texas, with full publication rights. Recipes cannot be returned.

SUNSHINE ROLLS

Gladiola's Baking Recipe of the Month

From Mrs. Smaistrla: "Helen's Sunshine Rolls"

1 cup milk, scalded
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lukewarm water
1 teaspoon sugar
2 cakes compressed yeast
3 egg yolks
5 cups (about) sifted Gladiola Special Hard Wheat Flour

Melt shortening in scalded milk; add sugar and salt and stir to dissolve. Cool to lukewarm. Dissolve the teaspoon of sugar and yeast in lukewarm water. Add yeast and egg yolks to cooled mixture and beat. Add about half the flour and beat thoroughly by hand or an electric mixer. Add remaining flour gradually, beating well, to make a medium soft dough. Place in a greased bowl, cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Punch down and divide dough into two portions. On a lightly floured surface roll each into a 9-inch circle. If desired, brush dough with melted margarine or butter. Cut each circle into 12 wedges; starting with the wide edge, roll each wedge and place, point down, in a greased shallow baking pan. Brush with milk and sprinkle with poppy seeds if desired, or brush again with melted butter. Let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 24 rolls.
